

Who is a Good Parent?

By: Neriya Baum

7th grade – Orot Etzion

Here are some tips on how to be a good parent:

1. A good parent gives his children lots and lots of warmth and love. The child should be able to feel this love.
2. A good parent should have fun with their child and be a good friend to him. At the same time, the parent must be respected by their child.
3. A good parent has to create an atmosphere of love and caring among their children. If this is difficult, the parents should keep trying. After all, the kids in the family will be together for more time than they will be with their parents.
4. A good parent should help their child develop their talents. For example if your child has a talent for piano, and you have enough money for this, you should send him to piano lessons.
5. A good parent should eat breakfast with his children. The mother or father should make good food for example: pancakes, eggs, orange juice and waffles. Each person can tell what his schedule is for that day.
6. A good parent should always pay attention to their child. If their child is having a problem with something they should try to help them solve it.
7. A good parent should send his kids to a youth group and let them spend a lot of time with their friends.
8. A good parent should give his child space and independence, but not too much. You need to find the balance between #6 and #8. For example, if the child asks his parents to leave him alone, they should leave him alone and let him solve the problem on his own.
9. A parent should help the child make a time to do homework and housework. If there is no specific time, the child may not do what he needs to do.
10. A good parent sometimes needs to say no, and to put limits on his child. For example, if your child asks all day long for presents, you should be able to say no. If you child watches TV all day, you should limit him to 30 minutes a day.
11. A good parent needs to make a time for fun and for hobbies together. For example, hike with your child, bike with your child, go shopping or to a restaurant together, or the movies, cook and bake with your child, play games, play basketball, go to basketball games, and anything else you like.
12. A good parent should always emphasize the positive. For example, if your son did something wrong or did something poorly, try to find something positive so that he will feel better with himself.